LogoDesign.net redesigns political logos of the 2020 U.S. Presidential candidates

YARDLEY, Pennsylvania - LogoDesign.net, a US-based logo company, recently redesigned political logos of the candidates of 2020 U.S. Presidential election.

Pete Buttigieg, Kamala Harris, Beto O'Rourke, Bernie Sanders and President Trump are some of the candidates included in the list. However, not all running Presidential candidates have been included.

A team of in-house graphic designers has worked on the project to create two logo design concepts for every candidate listed inspired by their personalities, political visions, and public perception.

The aim of redesigning the political campaign logos is to reflect on the candidates' personalities and incorporate their brand of politics into the new designs. Viewers will be able to pick the candidates' honest political agendas and subliminal messages.

This project is not an official commission by any of the candidates. It is LogoDesign.net's initiative to show solidarity with voters for the upcoming 2020 Presidential election with a pinch of humor.

Zaheer Dodhia, CEO and Founder of LogoDesign.net, explains, "The U.S. 2020 Presidential election is an important event that is going to change the history of the country yet again."

He further adds that "I think voters are often deceived by political spins, glossed over media hype and candidate dramas. As responsible citizens we need to delve deeper into the character, integrity and messages of these campaigners, and decide on the better person for our country."

Dodhia also cautions, “We’ve designed these logos as a humorous commentary on the U.S. Presidential candidates. Viewer discretion is advised and should make their own judgment as to who they want to vote for.”
